You must be 18 years or older to be a manager in our independently owned and operated McDonald's franchise.This job posting is for a position in a restaurant owned and operated by an independent franchisee and not McDonald's USA. This franchisee owns a license to use McDonald's logos and food products, for example, when running the restaurant. However, this franchisee is a separate company and a separate employer from McDonald's USA. If you are hired for the job described in this posting, the franchisee will be your employer, not McDonald's USA. Only the franchisee is responsible for employment matters at the restaurant, including hiring, firing, discipline, supervisions, staffing, and scheduling employees. McDonald's USA has no control over employment matters at the restaurant. McDonald's USA will not receive a copy of your employment application and it will have no involvement in any employment decisions, including whether you receive an interview for the job or whether you are hired. This job posting contains some information about what it is like to work in a McDonald's restaurant, but it is not a complete job description. People who work in a McDonald's restaurant perform a number of different tasks every day, and this posting does not list all of the essential functions of this job. When you need your employees to function as a cohesive team, you may need to plan a few team building activities to get everyone together. Whether you're planning an extended event or you just need something quick for fine tuning of your team, try these easy team building ideas.What Is Team Building?Your employees are individuals, each with solid strengths, skills and ideas. As you strive to develop a killer team, you'll need your individual players primed to work interdependently and cooperatively to achieve goals. Team building is a buzz word that simply involves structured activities for employees to help them learn how to work together more successfully.Benefits of Team BuildingTeam building has a number of benefits that can have a major impact on your employees and your company, both in the short- and long-term, states TeamBonding.Engaging in team building activities gives your employees a chance to see each other in different circumstances and settings, which helps them form deeper connections.Team building activities help employees develop interpersonal skills such as communication, conflict resolution, problem solving and strategic planning.When your employees engage in team building activities, they can work more successfully because they have greater insight about individual strengths and weaknesses.Employees often have boosts in creativity and innovation after team building activities. It's common for employees to be more motivated and excited after team building.A Simple but Effective Team Building ActivityYou don't need to plan an extensive event to engage in successful team building. Sometimes just a short 30-minute exercise can have far-reaching results.Have everyone write down two facts and one lie about themselves on pieces of paper. Then, give everyone about 15 minutes to circulate with each other to discuss the facts and the lie. The goal is to convince everyone that the lie is a fact. After this period is up, gather everyone together. Have each person read their facts and lie aloud. The group has to vote about which statement is the lie.Planning an EventIf it's time for a major team building event, make sure you have enough time to plan all the details. Creating a team to manage the event is also helpful. Make a budget, assemble a guest list, pick a date and a venue and work on your event agenda. The agenda will include every activity and the duration of each, meeting points, meals and entertainment.Special Team Building IdeasAdd some of these team building ideas to your event.Play office trivia to bring people together. With everyone in small teams present assorted trivia questions for the teams to answer. The team with the most points wins a prize.Plan a workshop to help employees learn new skills together. The workshop could be off-site, or you could bring in an expert to teach a skill to your team. MORE FROM QUESTIONSANSWERED.NET
